Greenburg Township, which gave McKinley more than five hundred majority, and was carried by the Republicans last spring, went Democratic by maforities ranging from ninety to four hundred. Cortlandt Republicans gained a decided victory This is due to the energy and leadership of former Assemblyman James W. Husted, who has never meddled in local politics before. Kear, Republican and present incumbent, was opposed by his old rival, Ira D. Strong. The result was that 69 votes were polled, 80 more than ever before in the history of the town. Mr. Kear was re-elected by 6 majority. The local option questions were to have been submitted, but were stopped by an injunction at the last moment.

A fire, caused by an overheated range, did about $1,000 damage to the home of the Sisters of the Divine Compassion, in Broadway, this village, at midnight on Monday. The Sisters had retired when the fire broke out. As soon as Sisters hurried from their rooms, and seeing the fire was in the back of the house dressed them selves in the front and prayed on the stoop for the saving of the building. In a short time they were able to return to their rooms. The house is worth $30,000. It is of brick and frame, and was purchased from the Dusenberry estate by Sister Veronica, the Mother Superior.

KETTLE RIVER ROAD FAVORED.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC'S OPPOSITION LIKELY TO

Ottawa, March 29 (Special).-In spite of the nadian Pacific Railway's opposition the Kettle River Railway will probably get its charter. At the meeting of the Railway Committee to-day opposition to the charter was generally condemned Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, was particularly severe on the Canadian Pacific. He said he had visited the Boundary Creek district and could testify to its great wealth as a mining country. There was no part of Canada that had as valuable mineral wealth. Those who had said that there should be no railways built to the south of the boundary were making a startling proposiof the boundary were making a startling proposi-tion. He for one was not prepared to refuse to grant such a charter. There would be business for both the Kettle River road and the Canadian Pacific. He would not see competition stranged by the Canadian Pacific. Ross Robertson, member for Toronto, said he was not willing to sit at the feet of Sir William Van Horne and learn patriotism. He would vote for the charter.

JULIA ARTHUR HAD TO STOP.

MANAGEMENT SAID SHE FAINTED-SPECTATORS DECLARED SHE WAS WOUNDED

"A Lady of Quality" at the Hollis Street Theatre to-night was brought to a sudden termination during a fencing scene in the first act, when Miss Julia Arthur suddenly signalled for the curtain. The signal was promptly responded to, and the curtain rung down. For a quarter of an hour the surprised audience waited in suspense, which the orchestra vainly attempted to allay.

Then the stage manager appeared before the footlighes and announced that Miss Arthur had suffered a serious fainting spell, which would cause the discontinuance of the performance. The effect would be only temporary, he expected, and he felt confident that she would be able to appear felt confident that she would be able to appear to-morrow night.

Several persons in the audience stated to a re-porter that they distinctly saw Miss Arthur wounded by Edwin Arden, who, in the part of Sir John Oxen, was fencing with Miss Arthur, but this is denied by the management.

The owners announce that the change from a private to a National Bank is made on account of the recent order of the State Board of Tax Commissioners, that a private bank would be assessed on a sum double its capital, and on an amount equivant to 3% per cert interest on the concern's cap-

The owners say: "We have been entirely willing to keep our capital in Government bonds and accept the 4 per cent interest they hear, but we are not which to do so and pay tax on the money invested in them, either as a private or incorporated bank."

The ownership of the bank will stay in the Fletcher family. The hank was established in 153 by Stoughton A. Fletcher.

ANOTHER PHILADELPHIA BANK SCANDAL Philadelphia, March 29.-Following the collapse of the Guaranters' Finance Company and the susanother bank sensation in the arrest, on a warrant issued by United States District-Attorney Beck, Singerly was president. The annual parade of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World passed through the streets of Manhattan yesterday morning and was viewed with interest and delight. The Indians, cowboys and strangely dressed and caparisoned riders from all parts of the world made a striking display, and crowds that were not by any means composed entirely of small boys lined the streets to gaze at the attractive pageant. After leaving the Madison Square Garden the procession moved in Madison-ave, to Twenty-third-st. thence to Lexington-ave., to Fifty-seventh-st., to Fifth to Lexington-ave., to Fifty-seventh-st, to Fifth-ave., to Waverley Place, to University Place, to Wooster-st, to Grand-st, to the Bowery, to Fourth-ave., and thence back to the Garden. The opening performance will take place at the Madison Square Garden this evening, and the promise is that all the most attractive features of the show of last year will be retained, while others not less interesting are added.

LAWSON N. ON DECK AGAIN.

HE BERATES THE RAPID TRANSIT COMMIS-SIONERS AND LAUDS THE ELEVATED.

A meeting which was called ostensibly to urge the removal of the Rapid Transit Comm Railroad, took place last night in the Young Men's Christian Association building, in One-hundredand-fifty-fifth-st., near Amsterdam-ave. The only Lawson N. Fuller, who has for so many years been the mouthpiece of the Manhatian company, engineered the whole affair, and, although he was not the nature of a reappearance for Mr. Fuller, services as a boomer his energies as a public champion of the elevated road have been allowed to lie dormant. But last night he bobbed up serenely again and delighted his audience with one of those old-time speeches, in which unbridled invective stance was explained after the meeting by a man, who remarked that places of amusement are few Washington Heights, and the well-warmed hall of the Y. M. C. A. afforded a comfortable refuge from the rain which poured down throughout the Washington Heights, and his eccentricities of utterance are an invariable attraction. Last night he was in fine form after the rest he has allowed himself to take. of the band which he had hired playing "Hail to the Chief" as he rose to make his address. started out by paying his respects to the Rapid Transit Commission with characteristic taste and Alexander E. Orr, he said, was a nice old man, with handsomer flowing whiskers than any man in the room. John H. Starin, so far as his work on the Commission was concerned, was like a dead fly in an apothecary's ointment; George Rives was nice looking, and so on. But what L. Rives was nice looking, and so on. But what did they know about practical matters or rapid transit problems? Pshaw! nothing! Lawson N. Fuller had forgotten more than their experience had ever taught them. While he didn't say so in so many words. Mr. Fuller's hearer gathered that the interests of the city would be best served by pushing through the Elisworth bill, and hereafter instead of appointing a bi-partisan board of four, making Lawson N. Fuller a Rapid Transit Commissioner of One.
